

Mark Kamsler MD

Doctor Kamsler, a Board Certified pediatrician has been taking care of his patients over 18 years.

He specializes in holistic and natural medicine, treating, whenever possible, chronic and acute illnesses with natural supplements, homeopathic medicines, and other disease specific topical ointments.

He enjoys a broad reputation with both in and out of state patients that are consulting him on their health problems. He is well experienced in comprehensive medical evaluations, complete pediatric care, advanced nutritional testing and nutritional advice, life style coaching, a new form of energetic and spiritual exercise called eurythmy, etc.

Dr. Kamsler is well known and sought after for his management of children with complex medical problems.

He emphasizes a comprehensive body & mind approach best summarized under the term anthroposophical medicine, the most complete form of complementary/alternative medicine available.

Dr. Kamsler graduated from the prestigious University of Michigan School of Medicine, and after his residency at Mott Children's Hospital he spent several years studying anthroposophical/complementary medicine in the US and Europe while working with Children's Hospital of Wisconsin.

He is a Board member of the American College for Anthroposophic Medicine. His additional activities include lectures, training seminars and workshops to professional and lay groups. He has worked extensively as a consulting pediatrician to several Waldorf Schools and has been a sought after speaker by groups ranging from Birthing Centers and La Leche League to Grand Rounds at several hospitals.

He is recognized by his peers as a leader in the emerging field of complementary medicine.

Following a long standing interest in researching ways for creating new pharmaceutical quality natural remedies Dr. Kamsler founded, together with Ross Rentea, MD and Andrea Rentea MD, the True Botanica company. Their goal is to create the most safe and effective full spectrum products possible that work harmoniously on body, mind and spirit. The formulas are designed by uniting the best in emerging modern nutritional technology with insights given by the scientist Rudolf Steiner, as well as by paying attention to today's patient needs.

He is also Co-Founder, Vice President and Treasurer of the True Botanica Foundation, a non-profit organization for education, research and social help in the anthroposophical health care field.
